EX SUNS REUNITED

Sport Court of Arizona, recently moved their office into the offices of VanArsdale Properties in Scottsdale. Dick & Tom VanArsdale welcomed Jim Fox, owner of Sport Court of Arizona, into their new accommodations in the fashionable area known as Southbridge.

The VanArsdals had playing careers that spanned 12 years while Fox played 10 years in the NBA. “We’ve known each other for 40 years,” said Fox. “We socialize together, go on fishing trips, our kids are friends so it was very comfortable for us to move in together.”

Sport Court Of Arizona was started by Fox in 1978 and moved from a location just down the street to be with his former teammates. “Tom and Dick have a great office space and their business philosophy is identical to ours in that we like to do everything possible for our customers and have a good time doing it.”

The former Phoenix Suns retired in 1977.
